What is Bitcoin Cash?

Bitcoin cash is a hard fork, or spinoff, from the Bitcoin blockchain that occurred on 1 August 2017.

Just before Bitcoin achieved its previous all-time high of $20,000 at the end of 2017, Bitcoin Cash was developed. Although it is not the oldest, Bitcoin Cash is one of the biggest and best-known forks of the cryptocurrency.

The split came as the Bitcoin community could not reach consensus on a proposal to increase the network's capacity to allow for more transactions. A group of developers realized that the huge potential of Bitcoin could be further harnessed optimally through a hard fork, thereby increasing the block size limit.

The primary objective of Bitcoin Cash was to address the issues concerning rising transaction fees and controversies surrounding scalability in the blockchain. Keeping in perspective peer-to-peer transactions as the mainframe and security as the pivotal purposes, this BCH was poised to facilitate the increase in block size from one MB to eight MB, thereby achieving an exponentially high speed of transaction process.

A salient characteristic of this protocol is that it ensures liquidity and ensures lightning-fast speed of more transactions on the network.

Bitcoin Cash exists separately from BTC. Like BTC, the supply of BCH is capped at 21 million coins. The fixed supply is intended to limit inflation and make bitcoin cash a store of value. So far, more than 2,800 merchants accept BCH for payment, according to data compiled by Cryptowerk.

Bitcoin Cash Price History

First let's take a quick look at the BCH price history. While past performance should never be taken as an indicator of future results, knowing what the crypto has done in the past can give us some much-needed context when it comes to either making or interpreting a BCH price prediction.

BCH had a promising beginning but has experienced turmoil ever since. The coin reached its all-time high during the December 2017 crypto rally, soaring to $4,355.62 from $1,381.81 at the start of the month. After hitting the ATH, however, the price fell, first slowly and then quickly with continuous volatility.

BCH traded well below $1,000 during the 2021 bull market, ending the year at $430.64. The price dropped to $160.07 on 12 May 2022 amid the Terra Luna crash. Bearish sentiment weighed on the price, dragging it to around $97.00 by the end of 2022.

The coin's price has the typical market volatility, but many people believe its future will be brighter and will provide greater value in the following months and years.

BCH Price Analysis

Bitcoin Cash (BCH) is holding close to the $300 level after an intense melt-up in the last few weeks.

At the time of writing, Bitcoin Cash is trading at $283.11 with a market capitalization of $5,496,710,701, making it the 14th largest crypto by that metric. In the past 24 hours, the BCH price has decreased by 3.65% with a trading volume of $758,122,267.

Despite now trading around 17% lower versus last Friday's more than one-year peaks around $330, BCH is still up more than 200% versus earlier monthly lows around $90.

The current price means it has jumped 166.2% in the past fortnight, leading to speculation about the factors behind this remarkable upward movement.

News that BCH will be one of the few cryptocurrencies listed on by crypto exchange EDX Markets was attributed as the catalyst for June's big price spike.

EDX Markets, which is backed by a number of major financial institutions like Fidelity, Charles Schwab and Citadel, recently launched and observers think that the exchange will be looked on more favorably by regulators than its competitors like Coinbase.

Bitcoin Cash's strong recent performance means that it is the third best-performing cryptocurrency in the top 100 by market capitalization over the past seven days, as per CoinGecko.

Is it too Late to buy Bitcoin Cash?

The strong rally over the past week and a half has some crypto investors concerned that they might have missed their chance to buy BCH on the cheap.

Is it too late to buy Bitcoin Cash, they might now be asking.

Well, while the cryptocurrency's strong breakout from the $90-$160ish range it was stuck within for around one year certainly seems to signal a longer-term bullish impulse, BCH is still a long way down from previous all-time highs.

Back in May 2021, Bitcoin Cash rose as high as the $1,600s, more than 5x up versus current levels.

Meanwhile, back in 2017, BCH at one point went as high as $4,300.

The cryptocurrency's struggles to keep pace with Bitcoin's adoption rate means that a return to these 2017 highs may never happen.

But if we are in the early stages of a new crypto bull market, BCH could still do very well.

With the cryptocurrency still looking cheap by historical comparison, it certainly isn't too late to buy BCH.
